DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

2. Claims 33-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Martin et al. (6,042,605). Martin et al. disclose, in figures 1-11 and in col. 6, line 47 to col. 7, line 54; col. 8, lines 65-67, and in col. 14, lines 4-6, the invention substantially as claimed. Martin et al. disclose an endoluminal prosthesis with an elongate, ePTFE tubular member (4), a structural support member (6); and an elongate, PTFE securement member (8) that is a flat, thin suture helically arranged with respect to the longitudinal axis of the tubular member. The securement member secures the structural support member to the exterior surface of the tubular member, and the securement member is adhered to the tubular member, non-continuously or continuously (see col. 7, lines 44-54). However, Martin et al. do not disclose a width of the securement member to be less than .60 mm (Martin et al. do disclose a width of .635 mm). Nevertheless, it would have been a matter of design choice to size a securement member, so that it has a width that is less than .60 mm. As disclosed by Martin et al. in col. 7, lines 14-19, a width of the securement member can be chosen according the desired properties of the prosthesis (radial stiffness, burst pressure, and porosity).

Art Unit: 3731

Response to Amendment

3. The rejection of claim 34 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph is hereby withdrawn.

With respect to the rejection of claims 33-41 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) on the Martin reference; Applicant's arguments have been considered, but are not persuasive. As concurred by the Applicant: "Martin suggests varying the [coupling member] widths to achieve certain desired properties." This disclosure does not deny the possibility of a coupling member width that is less than 0.60 mm. In col. 7, lines 3-9, Martin formulates that the coupling member width is a function of the "amplitudes of undulations" of the structural support member (6). This ratio obviously allows for modifying the coupling member width to a desired width, even decreasing the width to the claimed dimension, as long as flexibility of the prosthesis is optimized through dimensioning the coupling member according to the ratio.

Martin only mentions "increasing the width" to disclose the effects of this action on the stiffness, burst pressure, porosity, and wrinkles of the prosthesis.

Art Unit: 3731

Finally, contrary to the Applicant's allegation, Martin does suggest, in col. 7, lines 9-13, decreasing coupling member width, i.e., when a coupling member is "positioned adjacent to the apexes, e.g., in abutment with linking member (20)."

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
